AMBOY GIRL'S FUNERAL SET FOR SATURDAY

Innocent Victim of Shooting Mourned by Whole City

BULLETIN
Judge Albert H. Manus of Freeport has granted the request of State's Attorney Edward Jones to recall the grand jury for the January term of the circuit court to report Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. At that time the county prosecutor will present to the grand jury testimony in the murder charges against Charles Skinner, of Amboy, former railroad fireman, who is held for the slaying of Miss Olive Derwent.

Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest into the death of Miss Olive Derwent at the Vaughan undertaking parlors in Amboy yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of which the jury composed of Amboy business and professional men returned a verdict finding that the death of the popular high school student was due to gun shot wounds fired by Charles Skinner, and recommended that he be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder. Coroner Banker immediately issued a coroner's mittimus which was delivered to Sheriff Ward Miller, holding Skinner to the grand jury.

The funeral of Miss Derwent will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from the First Methodist church in Amboy, where she was one of the most active workers in the Epworth League and young people's societies of the church. The pastor, Rev. Earl M. Edwards, will preach the funeral sermon and interment will be in Prairie Rose cemetery.

Doctor First Witness
Dr. E. A. Sullivan who attended Miss Derwent was the first witness to testify before the inquest. He stated that he was called last Wednesday evening, Jan. 30, to the Scott home, where he found Miss Derwent suffering from bullet wounds. He described one bullet as having been found on the skull back of the right ear, another having penetrated the trachea or wind pipe and a third was found in the right side of the chest. She was conscious and upon being taken to the Amboy city hospital, the physician told Charles Skinner had fired the shot, while she was seated in an automobile with John Scott, a neighbor in the front yard at her home. Dr. Sullivan stated that the young woman was in shock from hemorrhage and experienced difficulty in breathing due to the punctured wind pipe. Hypostatic pneumonia developed Sunday, he added, resulting in her death at the hospital about 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

The day following Dr. Sullivan stated that Miss Derwent told him that in relating the circumstances of the shooting to Sheriff Ward T. Miller, she had neglected to inform the county officer that she had seen Skinner hiding behind a tree in the front yard of her home before the shooting and as the car pulled into the yard. The physician also related further statements made by Miss Derwent at the hospital in which she named Skinner as the assailant.

Father at Bedside
Walter R. Derwent, Illinois Central locomotive engineer, father of the girl, testified that he was on his run at Clinton, Ill., the night of the shooting and arrived home the following day. He was at the bedside of his daughter when she passed away early yesterday morning, he stated. Questioned by Coroner Banker, the father stated that he did not know of any threatening notes his daughter might have received from Skinner.

Scott, funeral director and companion of Miss Derwent, on the night of the shooting, recited his activities on the night of the shooting. He testified that he was sitting in his car in front of the Vaughan mortuary when Miss Derwent passed, enroute to her home from the show. He invited her to ride home in his car and upon entering the yard at the Derwent home, five shots were fired. Scott named Charles Skinner as the assailant and added that he identified Skinner after the shooting as he ran back of the car across the street and toward a creek.

"I realized that Miss Derwent had been shot and stepped out of the car. I did not know at the time that one of the bullets had struck me, and as I stepped out of the car I saw Skinner running toward a clump of willows along the creek bank. I felt a sting in my right breast and found that I had been wounded. I did not attempt to follow Skinner as I had recognized him as the man who fired the shot from a bright, shiny gun and decided that the law would take care of him. I went into the Derwent house to notify Mrs. Derwent and

"Framed" Evidence Hinted by Hauptmann Attorneys in Questions on Ladder

Witness, Shown Photo Says He "Might Be Mistaken" Today

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense today pursued a hint of "framed" evidence with an expert who insisted in the face of photographs and government reports, that three incriminating nail holes in the Lindbergh kidnap ladder were not in existence when he examined it.

This witness was Dr. E. M. Hudson, New York physician and amateur fingerprint expert. He clung to his testimony that the famed "rail 16"—a part of the kidnap ladder which the state charges came from Hauptmann's attic and fitted there—had only one square nail hole when he saw it on March 13, 1932, thirteen days after Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped and slain.

The rail, in evidence, has four nail holes which state experts and police said jibed with nail holes in the joists of Hauptmann's attic.

Pictures Made Later
Out of court after Hudson's testimony, counsel for the state said that photographs of the nail holes were made before he examined the ladder. A state trooper said he noticed ten nail holes on the night of the kidnapping.

The defense also sought to weaken the identification of Hauptmann as a man seen lurking near the Lindbergh home before the crime by calling William Whitehead to say that the reputation of his relative Millard Whitehead for veracity was "not good."

The two men do not spell their names the same way. Whitehead testified for the state, placing Hauptmann near the crime scene, William Diehl, another resident of the Soudland hills, followed. As to Whitehead's reputation for veracity, he said:

"Taint any good."

George E. Lenz also said "not good" as to Whitehead's veracity.

Girl of 14 Tells of Criminal Assault on Her Here Last August

A 14-year-old girl residing south of Dixon appeared at the offices of County Judge William Leech and State's Attorney Edward Jones this morning and related a story of a brutal assault which she said took place last August in a vacant lot north of Seventh street near the Illinois Central tracks. The girl appealed to the county officials for aid in her present condition and a further investigation is being made.

The story told by the girl to the officials centered on a Sunday morning last August as she was on her way to Sunday school. She stated that she followed a path across lots east of the Illinois Central tracks, when she was suddenly set upon by a strange man who despite her efforts to free herself from his grasp and screams for assistance, committed an assault upon her. She was said to have stated that she withheld the facts from her mother and friends until today when she made an appeal to the county officers for assistance.

New Emergency Relief Work Projects in Lee County Approved; Basement in Stony Point School Among Them

Several Illinois Emergency Relief work projects have been approved for Lee county to provide work for unemployed men. One of the more recent projects which has been approved provides for extensive improvement of the Stony Point school east of the city. This project calls for the expenditure of $1,380 for the excavation of a basement under the school building to house the heating equipment and coal storage bins. The interior and exterior of the building are also to be repainted. The project calls for 3,264 working hours.

Another project coming under federal relief will provide employment for several men from Reynolds, Viola and Brooklyn townships in the east section of Lee county. The project provides a sum of $3,265 to be used in removing unsightly and dangerous trees, landscaping and replanting of trees along

-- TRIAL NEAR END --

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The defense of Bruno Richard Hauptmann expects to rest before the day was over. Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly, before he went into the court this morning, said he believed he would complete the case for the German carpenter by adjournment time this afternoon.

The state expects to use one day in rebuttal and Reilly hopes to gain an adjournment over Saturday so that he can make the defense summation on Monday.

SENATOR DIXON WOULD HINDER MINOR PARTIES

Introduces Bill To Exclude Them From Ballot

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Minor parties would have a more difficult time in obtaining a place on the state ballot under a bill introduced in the senate by George C. Dixon of Dixon.

The measure is intended, he said, to make it impossible for minor parties which have little following to put the state to the expense of printing an extra column for them on the ballot.

Under the present law any third party which obtains 25,000 signatures to its petitions is entitled to a place on the ballot.

Dixon would amend this act to require that included in the 25,000 signatures would be those of 200 qualified voters from each of at least 50 counties.

In this manner he said, purely sectional movements and minor parties without a following would be eliminated from the ballot.

He believes passage of the bill would do away with situations similar to that of last fall when the Communist party submitted a petition containing 25,000 signatures, all from Cook county. Many of these were later held to be invalid and the charge was made at the hearing that many of the signatures had been copied from the Chicago telephone directory.

Dixon said he thought it would be impossible for some of the third parties to obtain 200 signatures in many of the state's counties.

Former Cincinnati, Detroit Bookmaker Sentenced to Prison

London, Ont., Feb. 7.—(AP)—David Meisner, 55-year-old former Cincinnati and Detroit bookmaker, faced a term of 15 years in the penitentiary today for the kidnapping of John A. Labatt, wealthy Ontario brewer.

A jury of 10 farmers, a jeweler and a printer convicted him on three counts, two alleging kidnapping and the third armed robbery. Justice G. F. McFarland immediately pronounced sentence of 15 years on each conviction and ordered that the terms run concurrently.

The maximum sentence for each of the charges would have been 25 years. The justice decided against sentencing to be lashed because of the defendant's physical condition. Meisner, who is almost sightless in one eye, was led away to his cell protesting his innocence.

"It won't be long until they round up the gang that did the kidnapping and then they'll know I was innocent," he asserted.

WIDOW SLAIN BARTENDER IS FREED TODAY

Friend of Mrs. Straub Surrenders; Reiterates Her Story

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Ellen (Billie) Edlin, sought for questioning in the slaying of Louis Straub at the exclusive Saddle & Cyle Club Sunday morning, surrendered to authorities today.

She had been sought for two days after a cab driver reported driving a woman "who resembled Mrs. Edlin" to the club at approximately the time of the shooting.

Enroute to the state's attorney's office with two attorneys, Mrs. Edlin reiterated the story she told police when first questioned; that she knows nothing of the crime.

Mrs. Melba Straub, Straub's widow, who has been in custody since Sunday, won freedom shortly after Mrs. Edlin surrendered. Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley said he had not sufficient evidence to obtain warrants against either Mrs. Straub or Mrs. Edlin.

Thought Passion Killing
Police have questioned a number of the women friends of Mrs. Straub to corroborate their theory that the slaying was one of passion. During the investigation Mrs. Straub admitted that "Billie" (Mrs. Edlin) is the dominant influence in her life.

But Mrs. Edlin today denied all innuendoes regarding her relationship with Straub's wife and insisted she had not been in the cab of Keith Colling on the night of the murder.

Meanwhile, Colling identified an unusual purse found in Mrs. Edlin's apartment after her disappearance, as the purse carried by his mysterious passenger.

Straub, a bartender at the exclusive club, was found Sunday morning in a basement lavatory of the building with seven revolver bullets in his body.

MADE ESCAPE AS PLANE IS FORCED DOWN

Jess Doyle Felled One Guard While Other Phoned Report

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Slugging a Federal agent who had lifted a stein of beer, Jesse Doyle was at liberty today a few hours after his arrest in the Bremer kidnaping case.

He escaped, it was disclosed today, from the bar of the Nading hotel at Yorkville, Ill., the county seat of Kendall county. The agent and a companion had made a forced landing in Yorkville as they were returning Doyle from Kansas City last night.

The identity of the prisoner was guarded by the Chicago office of the division of investigation, but police of northern Illinois were asked today to hunt for Doyle in a car bearing the same license as one in which the prisoner, after an acrobatic dive through a window, made good his escape.

Pilot Was Lost
Unable to locate the municipal airport at Chicago, the pilot, Joseph Jacobson, made a forced landing on the farm of E. L. Matlock, near Yorkville, fifty miles south-west of Chicago.

With their prisoner handcuffed, a farmer and, entered the hotel where one of the agents placed a call for the Department of Justice office at Chicago.

While his companion was phoning, the second agent led Doyle to the hotel bar and removed the handcuffs.

"The officer ordered two beers," Grace Larison, a waitress who witnessed the escape, said. "I brought the beers and watched the men closely because I had seen the handcuffs removed and was interested."

Officer Knocked Down
The prisoner slipped his beer slowly and seemed to be watching his guard's movement. Suddenly, just as the federal officer raised his glass, the prisoner struck him on the chin and the officer fell to the floor.

"Like a flash the prisoner turned around and leaped through the closed window into a side yard. I saw him race out the gate and across the street where he jumped into an automobile and drove away while the agent kept firing at him through the window."

Witnesses said he performed a flip, landing on his feet. Outside H. W. Brethauer, a grocer, had left his new sedan parked with the motor running. Doyle raced to it and drove away.

The first clue as to his identity came from the car. Today Chicago police were asked to watch for Doyle, the Bremer case suspect in a car bearing 1935 license plates No. 104-140. That was the license of Brethauer's car.

Sedan Abandoned
Later the sedan was found abandoned ten miles east of Wheaton, 25 miles west of Chicago.

D. M. Ladd, agent in charge of the Chicago federal men, declined to identify the escaped man. "I can't comment upon it at all," Ladd said.

R. B. Nathan, chief of the division of investigation's Kansas City office, maintained the same silence not even admitting that his men had captured Doyle.

Kansas City police had been hunting Doyle for some time. Recently the trail grew warmer when an apartment manager identified a picture of Doyle as an "E. A. Conley" who had lived in his building. Doyle is wanted in Kansas City for questioning in the shooting of Mrs. Helen Rush, 27, who was in turn

Michigan Man Killed Employer: Fled Across Nation With His Body

Granite City, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Born with a strictured esophagus which attending physicians said today means certain death, the 10-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jenkins of Nameoki, Ill., will be permitted to die of starvation, the doctors indicated.

Physicians said the baby had not been able to eat since birth and never could eat. An emergency operation would be futile, they explained.

RESERVE FORCE FROM CCC PLAN OF ARMY CHIEF

Gen. M'Arthur Would Enlist 100,000 for Secondary Line

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—An enlisted reserve force of more than 100,000 partially trained young men recruited from CCC camps is proposed in a bill now being drafted by General Douglas MacArthur, Army Chief of Staff.

MacArthur's bill, being drafted at the suggestion of the house military committee would provide for voluntary enlistment of CCC camp graduates for two months intensive military training after the two months they would revert to inactive status.

There is now no available reserve of men to fill the ranks of the regular army quickly in an emergency. MacArthur told the house committee. The young men of the Civilian Conservation Corps, toughened by work in the forest camps, would make ideal recruits for a short, intensive training course, he said.

After serving two months the enrollees would be paid $24 per year, sufficient to maintain their interest in keeping the War Department informed of their whereabouts, and periodically presenting themselves for physical examination.

The 100,000 men would not be enlisted all at once, but gradually as they left the CCC camps. The estimated cost of the force, MacArthur reported, is $7,000,000.

The Chief of Staff emphasized the lack of reserve force in this country.

Former Amboy Pastor Passed Away Yesterday in Chi. Hospital

Rev. Fred Merrifield, former resident of Amboy and brother of Rev. Roy Merrifield, passed away Wednesday at the Albert Billings Memorial hospital in Chicago, death resulting from an operation. Rev. Merrifield was very well known in Amboy and vicinity. He was president emeritus of New Testament history at the Divinity School of the University of Chicago and pastor of the Union church, Hinsdale. He served as pastor of the All Saints' church in Chicago from 1922 to 1932. He was removed to the hospital last week and submitted to an operation on Friday, from the effects of which he failed to rally.

Rev. Merrifield was captain of the Maroon baseball team in 1898. After graduating he went to Japan and introduced the game there, and became known as the father of baseball in that country. He is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters.

Walking back into the patrol station, he covered Fréchette with a revolver. The truck driver surrendered without resistance and within two hours Captain Blake announced he had confessed.

In his asserted confession Fréchette cleared his three passengers of any connection with the crime or knowledge of the cargo the machine carried.

However, officers held the three for investigation. They are John Malcolm, Riva, St. Louis City; Mrs. Victor Messenger, Alameda, Calif., and her 4-year-old son. They said Fréchette gave them a ride from Salt Lake City.

Weapon in Auto
In a pocket of the automobile was the .32 calibre automatic pistol which the confession said it was Brown's own gun.

Fréchette was quoted as saying he intended to "ditch the automobile with the body" and take a boat from San Francisco to China. After the story had been told, Captain Blake said, the fugitive dropped the tense, emotional voice with which he had told of the fatal fight and his flight. With a sigh of relief, he said "I'm glad it's all over."

Officers said he will be held at Nevada City, Calif., for Michigan authorities.

Slugged Aviator
Fréchette became known as "The Flying Bandit" seven years ago when he was convicted of slugging his flying instructor, Harry W. Anderson, with a hammer during a fight from Pontiac.

Blake said Fréchette said he struck Anderson because Anderson had frozen onto the controls. Testimony at his trial said Fréchette went through Anderson's and the plane's pockets for valuables after bringing the plane down on its nose. He was paroled from prison after serving the minimum of a six to 10-year sentence.

Apprehended in California; Body of Victim in Trunk

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A murder suspect's 2,000 mile motor car ride with the body of his alleged victim was disclosed at a lonely police outpost on the California-Nevada border today and solved the mysterious disappearance of a Kalamazoo, Mich., trucking contractor and his employee.

Clarence Fréchette, 25, the driver of the machine, was reported by Capt. Joseph Blake of the California state highway patrol to have confessed he shot Robert Brown, 25, his employer, at Howell, Mich., January 29, and carried the body in the trunk of the machine for nine days.

With the fleeing suspect, when he was taken into custody near Truckee, Calif., were three hitchhikers, a man, a woman and a little girl.

Admitted Intimacies
Captain Blake quoted Fréchette as saying Brown was killed after the latter had told of intimate relations with Fréchette's "girl friend."

Brown's purported admission was made nine days ago, Blake quoted Fréchette as saying, while the pair were driving from Kalamazoo to Pontiac, Mich.

"I knocked him down," the asserted confession read. "He crawled to the car and reached in a pocket and grabbed that gun. He pointed it at me and I grabbed his hand."

"I don't know whether it was his finger or mine, but the gun fired twice."

"I put him in the trunk and I didn't know whether he was dead or alive. I knew if I was caught, I'd spend the rest of my life in prison."

Slayer Went to Movie

Blake said Fréchette, a former convict once known as "The Flying Bandit," spent that night in Pontiac and the next in Kalamazoo where he went to a motion picture show. Then began the strange flight.

It was intended to end in China, the purported confession said. But it ended abruptly at midnight because Sheriff Charles W. Struble of Kalamazoo had a hunch Brown had been killed.

The officer's guess was based on a telegram from Nevada and signed "Robert," asking the contractor's father, Roy Brown, to telegraph $50 in care of a Sacramento hotel. The sheriff telegraphed Sacramento to police.

The highway patrol station near Truckee, through which all automobiles entering California on that road must pass, was immediately notified to be on the lookout for Mrs. Roy Brown's automobile, in which the driver had disappeared.

Officer Opened Truck
While Fréchette underwent the routine border inspection, Highway Patrolman Frank Carson lifted the lid on the trunk.

He stared down into the eyes of Brown, shot twice through the head. Carson snapped the trunk shut.

Walking back into the patrol station, he covered Fréchette with a revolver. The truck driver surrendered without resistance and within two hours Captain Blake announced he had confessed.

In his asserted confession Fréchette cleared his three passengers of any connection with the crime or knowledge of the cargo the machine carried.

However, officers held the three for investigation. They are John Malcolm, Riva, St. Louis City; Mrs. Victor Messenger, Alameda, Calif., and her 4-year-old son. They said Fréchette gave them a ride from Salt Lake City.

FUGITIVE GIRL SHOT

Kansas City, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A theory that the shooting of Mrs. Helen Rush, 27, in critical condition in a hospital here, was the outgrowth of gang activities was advanced today by T. J. Higgins, chief of detectives.

Higgins said Mrs. Rush and Mrs. Anita Stacey, 32, who was charged with assault with intent to kill today in the shooting of Mrs. Rush, were believed to have been the companions of members of a recently-organized criminal gang.

As charges were being filed against Mrs. Stacey, a report was received from Yorkville, Ill., that her sweetheart, Jess Doyle, sought in the Bremer kidnaping, has escaped from federal agents there.

SILENT ON CAUSE

Mrs. Rush was known as the companion of John Langdon, who is being sought as a suspect in the robbery of an Osawatimie, Kas. bank, Higgins said.

Mrs. Stacey remained silent on the cause of the shooting.

"Let Mrs. Rush tell about it," she said.

R. B. Nathan, Department of Justice agent, refused to say whether the man who escaped at Yorkville was Doyle. It was learned at the airport here, however, that a pilot had been engaged yesterday to fly two federal agents and a prisoner to Chicago and belief the prisoner was Doyle was generally expressed.

Mrs. Rush, also known as Frances Taylor, was arrested here in October, 1933, on a charge of attempted extortion. She jumped bond and was a fugitive at the time she was shot.

By Joseph Fort Newton A CONJURER

HE best conjurer I ever saw," wrote Jane Welsh Carlyle in a letter, describing a party when Dickens played magician for an hour.

"This part of the entertainment," she said, "concluded with a plum pudding made out of raw flour, raw eggs—all the usual ingredients, raw-boiled in a gentleman's hat, and tumbled out reeking, all in one minute before the astonished eyes of children and old people."

"That trick," she added, "and his other of changing ladies' pocket handkerchiefs into confetti, and a box full of bran into a live guinea pig, would enable him to make a handsome subsistence, let the book-seller trade go as it please. A clever magician and a very good actor."

Yes, Dickens was indeed a magician who captured from the quaint streets of London slums the quaint, queerest, most fantastic figures ever heard of, pathetic, impossible and lovable by turns, by virtue of his genius and the grace of humor without which it were grim tragedy.

What a motley crew of boys and girls, men and women, begrimed, bedraggled, boisterous, and beloved, troop out of the underworld in his beings, as if to bring us news of humanity, and show us that dwellers of the abyss have not only fun, but a wealth of kindness and pity. To have conjured up Pickwick, Sam Weller, Uriah Heep, Micawber, always waiting for something to turn up; Toots, who had whiskers on his brain; Chollen, the donkey who always speaks his mind; Mrs. Witherly, who enjoyed ill health; Gullip, Kit, Swiveller, Pip, Tiny Tim, and all the rest, was a feat worthy of the greatest magician of human nature.

Nay more, to have recreated Christmas, giving us old Scrooge and Bob Cratchit, along with all the other smilers, sinners, sufferers in piteous company, warming the dying embers of faith, and restoring a festival of gladness, was a benediction to a sad, solemn generation.

For all these things we give thanks for Dickens on his birthday—he softened our hearts and made us more childlike; he taught us how to laugh; he was hearty, happy, wholesome—a blessed conjurer, in every truth, who knew the trick of blending a kind heart and laughing brain.

Meeting of Reading Club Last Evening

Mrs. Gordon Utley delightfully entertained the members of the Reading Club last evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. D. Dement on Peoria avenue. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. Harry Warner had been invited to read her paper on "Melodrama," which was most delightful, and interestingly replete with information, as Mrs. Warner traced the inception of melodrama down to its present stage.

Tempting refreshments were enjoyed as the group discussed events of the day during the social hour.

Practical Club Members Hear Pertinent Facts on Indians

The Practical Club met Tuesday with Mrs. W. Whitson. A paper presenting "The Indian and Our Government," was ably given by Mrs. D. G. Palmer.

There are 150 tribes of Indians scattered among the different states and it is a serious problem confronting Commissioner Collier, who has their interests at heart. The Indians are a land loving and living people, but have been crowded together and lands sold away from them to white people, so that it constitutes a serious menace to their efforts to be self supporting. One goal Commissioner Collier is striving for is to save the Indians land for them and have self-government with slight supervision. There is so much greed and graft among the whites who get big salaries for administering their affairs.

The situation in Indian hospitals is inhuman and dangerous, there being as many as sixty ward patients for one nurse to care for.

Where Indians live in adobe huts tuberculosis takes its toll. A meeting at Washington of groups interested in Indian welfare was held Jan. 7, 1934, and as a result the Howell bill has been passed which furnishes a large sum to buy lands for the Indians capable of running them.

Mexico, a smaller country than the United States, has the restoration of lands to their Indians well under way, and hope that the U. S. will take care of this problem that confronts them and that this race will cease to be known as the "forgotten man."

Mrs. Leon Hart played two piano numbers. Mrs. Whitson assisted by Mrs. Powell, then served delicious refreshments, ending an enjoyable meeting.

Messrs. Eichler Entertain Employees at Delightful Supper

(Contributed.)

Monday evening Joseph and Victor Eichler entertained the employees of the Eichler stores with a delicious supper in the basement of the Eichler store.

Twenty-nine guests were seated at the long table which was beautifully decorated with Valentine hearts and owers.

After the supper the guests were invited to the upstairs department where a stage setting had been arranged for the acts which were planned by the different departments.

The acts, which were very humorous, were all deserving of praise.

The prize for the best act was awarded to the girls in the ready-to-wear department. The opening scene was that of a hospital room with Miss Grose dressed in a nurse's uniform. Miss Fish entered in a seemingly critical condition, and upon the doctor's arrival, which was perfectly acted by Miss

VALENTINE PARTY NEEDS LOVELY SETTING

Frilly Decorations (They Can Be Home-Made) Are Important to Success

New York.—Either a table that looks like a paper valentine or one with a rural free delivery mail box centerpiece that may fill the double roll of decoration and gift-holder will serve admirably the sentimental purpose of St. Valentine's Day. And both may be made from crepe paper easily and at small cost by the prospective hostess.

Red hearts and gold arrow cut-outs are the principals of both these appropriately romantic arrangements. The big box-heart in the center of the first table has ruffles of white lace-edged crepe paper and is set in a circle of red and white paper ruffles. The candle holders are red hearts, too, with frills of lace paper and the nut cups are adorned with airy fluffs of red maline, red heart seals and golden arrow cut-outs.

The letter box is made of paste-board and wire, covered with gold crepe and decked with maline, arrows and hearts. To each of the valentines or favors in the box is attached a streamer which extends to a place at the table.

Appropriate Games Should Follow Refreshments

Supper and the distribution of valentines and gifts will be the major events of the party but when those are ended, a few games will fitting for the day are Hearts for add to the gaiety. Two that are Sale and Famous Lovers. For the first, the hostess numbers about four times more red hearts than she has guests, putting on each heart a number from one to ten. Then she distributes to each of her guests twelve pins or grains of corn or something else to represent money.

Finally an auctioneer is chosen and the guests bid for the hearts which are put up with, of course, their numbers concealed. Purchasers pay with their money substitutes and the player wins whose hearts add up the highest score.

For Famous Lovers, the players sit in a circle and one says "On Valentine's Day we think of —" and mentions a pair of famous lovers, perhaps Helen and Paris or player must repeat the sentence exactly and add another pair of Anthony or Cleopatra. The next famous lovers besides. And so it Nettz, the nurse and doctor succeeded in placing the sick lady upon the cot. It was found that her condition was very serious and an operation must be performed at once. The doctor hastily produced his surgical instruments which consisted of two huge butcher knives and a saw. Three operations were performed, the major one being the amputation of her left leg. The audience witnessed the horror of the operation, but for the sake of Ethel's friends who might be anxious about her, we wish to give the information that she was walking on her own two feet the next morning.

The girls on the dry goods floor appeared in most unusual costumes and rendered a quartette number which was dedicated to the Eichler store, entitled, "Scrubbing the Old Goods Floor." The quartette was ably introduced and directed by Ellsworth Miller. The girls in the office were assisted in their dance by Mrs. Bert Beuhler. Any of these girls might have been mistaken for Mrs. Vernon Castle in their "Fairy Dance." The girls in the glassware department pleased all with a vocal duet, and guitar accompaniment. Miss Elizabeth Hegert of the Amboy store sang a little Irish song which was much enjoyed. John Krug sat down to read his evening paper and turned on the radio which had been installed for the evening. The program was two colored men engaged in an animated conversation. The Negroes turned out to be Ed Gerdes and Don Stauffer.

Mrs. Miller Stitzel Happily Surprised

Mrs. Miller C. Stitzel was happily surprised Tuesday evening at her home in Nelson, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The guests arrived with well filled baskets which contained the tasty luncheon which was served later in the afternoon. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George W. Palmer, Miss Ethel Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Stitzel, Robert Dorothy and Richard Stitzel and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Eastbrook and son Donald. A beautifully decorated birthday cake and a large bouquet of flowers added to the festive appearance of the dining table. The guest of the happy surprise was the recipient of many pretty cards and presents during the afternoon and evening.

Gugerty-Payne Wedding Was a Pretty Ceremony

A quiet, but very pretty wedding ceremony was celebrated Saturday morning, Feb. 2nd, at 8:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church, in Walton, with Rev. Father W. J. Ryan officiating at the marriage of Alice Gugerty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gugerty, and Francis Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Payne of Walton. Miss Rita Gugerty, sister of the bride and Edward Payne, brother of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

The bride was beautifully attired in white satin and she wore a long white veil, gracefully arranged. Her lovely corsage was of pink roses. The bridesmaid wore green satin, and her corsage was of pink roses. Following the ceremony, a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, members of the immediate families being the guests. Two aunts of the bride served the tempting breakfast. Mrs. John Farley and Mrs. Michael Finn, assisting in the serving. Decorations of cut flowers and ferns were most attractive.

The bride and bridegroom left for Chicago on their honeymoon.

At left: The idea of the letter box is that every guest at the party pulls one of the streamers to obtain a valentine. The hostess can furnish her male guests with material for making an original valentine to put into the box. Then the ladies will draw for them. A prize may be given for the most original and clever valentine. Above is a party table including homemade centerpiece, candle holder and the nut cups. The whole thing is made in red, white, and gold. The crepe paper lace ruffle around the damask cloth can be purchased.

goes 'round the circle. The one who stays in the game longest wins.

How to Make Letter Box Centerpiece

For bottom of letter box, cut a piece of medium weight cardboard 6 by 12 inches. Bend a piece of cardboard for rounded top and fasten bottom with strips of adhesive tape. Cut pieces of cardboard to fit the ends of the box and tape them to the bottom so they will remain open at the top and sides. Cut a slit in the top of the box for the letter. Cover box with gold crepe. For the base, wrap four 18 inch lengths of No. 15 wire together,

OUR LIVES ARE GUIDED BY 75 YEARS OF OIL

If you're fond of anniversaries, you might note that next Aug. 27 marks the 76th birthday of the oil business in the United States.

It was on that date in 1859 that Col. Edwin L.
Drake of Titusville, Pa., drilled the nation's first commercial oil well.

John D. Rockefeller was a youthful and underpaid clerk in a Cleveland commission house at the time. The words "oil business" then meant killing whales and extracting oil from their blubber.

No one had ever heard of an internal combustion engine. The enormous pools of petroleum beneath the plains of Texas and Oklahoma were to wait half a century for their discovery.

But down in Pennsylvania, Colonel Drake's crude pump was drawing oil to the surface—and, if anybody had known it, was ushering in a whole new era for the United States and for the world.

It is perhaps fitting that Colonel Drake himself died in poverty, his fortune lost in stock market speculation.
Oil has built some stupendous fortunes, but not all of them have stayed in the hands of the men who first got them.

But it is not the wealth that oil has given to individuals that makes the anniversary worth noticing; it is the change it has wrought in human lives.

We are fond of saying that we live in the age of electricity. It would be nearer the point to say that we live in the gasoline age.

Out of that first well at Titusville came some of the most potent influences of modern life. The automobile itself, which has changed us so profoundly, depended on that well of Colonel Drake's. The airplane would never have been possible if it were not for oil. Neither—though this would be no great loss—would the submarine.

An industrial age must live by its sources of power; and the discovery that crude oil could be turned into such an extraordinarily powerful fluid as gasoline set our era of the industrial age off on a tangent it would not have taken otherwise.

It cut down space on our vast continent, ended isolation, brought the country close to the city, changed our ways of living, our habits of thought, and our outlook on life. Our whole history—economic, political, and social —took a new tack because of that well of Colonel Drake's.

That leaders in the petroleum industry are putting on an elaborate celebration at Titusville is very fitting.
Our country has few birthdays more significant than that of the oil industry.

FOR SAFETY AT SEA

Department of Commerce officials are quoted in current Washington dispatches as saying that it would be a good thing if Congress should order an investigation into recent steamship disasters; and with this comment the ordinary citizen probably will be in complete agreement.

It is utterly impossible for the innocent bystander even to hazard a guess as to what may be wrong—if, indeed, there be any cause for our recent tragedies at sea; but there is a general belief that something is out of line somewhere, and that it needs looking into.

Generations of experience have proved that American designers, builders and seamen are as good as any on earth. We should not be having accidents at the rate we have been having them. A congressional investigation might be an excellent remedy.

I venture the prediction that our present age, because of its craze for the new regardless of the true, will be looked back upon with amazement and ridicule.—Dr.
Robert A. Millikan, famous scientist.

Hitler's great victory in the Saar plebiscite marks the opening of a new phase of Nazism—that of an old-fashioned military dictatorship.—Dr. Paul Hutchinson of Chicago.

The munitions racket, one whose victim is all civilization, has governments as its partners, unconsciously on the part of governments perhaps.—Senator Gerald P.
Nye.

If a man worked hard at it, he couldn't work up a bigger list of enemies than I have made.—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Women of today stain their fingernails in such a manner that they resemble the claws of a tiger ripping up sheep.—Prof. Curt J. Ducasse of Brown University.

If we want to stay out of war, we will stay on this continent and stop running around in the east.—General Smedley D. Butler.

If you want liberty in the highest degree, you cannot have equality.—Dean William F. Russell of Teachers College, Columbia University.

Make an end of war. How? Educate, educate, educate!—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, famous feminist.

(READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

'Course Duncy was a happy lad.
'Twould make most any youngster glad to ride 'round in a little cart and have a lot of fun.
The pig that pulled him squealed loud, which tickled all the 'Tins crowd. Wee Goldy shouted, "Look at that old funny porker run."
'He's just as fat as he can be and, honestly, I cannot see how he can make such good speed, when he's pulling that small cart.
'The farmer has him trained real well. No wonder Duncy thinks it's sweet. I wish I owned the pig.
I know with him I'd never part.'

Then the old farmer shouted,
'Say, why not all have some fun today? I'll make my pet pig stop and then each one can take a turn.
'Ride all around the yard, just once, and don't try any funny stunts. If any 'Tinsmile was hurt,
'twould give me much concern.'
The 'Tinsmiles agreed that they would do just as they heard him say. Then Duncy, who had had enough, yelled very loudly, "Whoa!"

The pig jerked to a sudden stop and Duncy almost took a flop and exclaimed the farmer.
'Now, somebody else can go!'

And so they all rode 'round a while, until wee Scouty, with a smile, said, "Aw, that is too tame for me. I want something that's hard."

"Just wait," he heard the farmer
say. "I'll bring my trained mule, right away. If you think you are pretty good, just ride him 'round the yard!"

Wee Scouty proved that he was game, and then a very big thrill came that made the other 'Tins sore. "Hang on real tight," cried one.

The mule was tossing Scouty
'round, and almost flopped him to the ground. The lad, however, hung on, and exclaimed, "Whoa!"
This is fun!

(The 'Tins get some real home cooking in the next story.)

DAILY HEALTH

Medical Progress In 1934: I
In retrospect, 1934 can be seen as a productive year for medicine.
Of course, progress in medicine is not readily envisaged in terms of any given year. Medicine does not lend itself to that kind of chronology of progress.

In that respect medicine differs from most other sciences, for no
"progress" is progress to medicine unless it has been validated by an extensive experience. For every established item in medicine, there are scores that have been hailed with enthusiasm, only to be subsequently abandoned in disappointment.

With this by way of introduction
we may consider some of the outstanding advances in medicine during 1934. We begin with cancer, largely because cancer so dominates the minds of the public as the outstanding unsolved medical problem.

The problem of cancer is still unsolved, but a suggestion as to the possible cause of cancer has been advanced, which appears to a substantial number of critical cancer research workers. This suggestion holds that cancer may perhaps be due to some perversion of the normal processes in the body, the perversion consisting of a change in the chemical structure of a normal substance, so that it is altered from a harmless into a cancer-producing agent.

It is interesting to note that this hypothesis on the possible cause of cancer is based upon thoroughgoing studies on the chemical structures of numerous substances found in the body. It was on the basis of these studies that Dr. J. W. Cook succeeded in taking a chemical substance derived from the bile salts and converting it into a cancer-producing substance capable of inducing new growths in mice.

Learn to Play Piano

Simple, Easy Course Will Start Any Child
on Way to Musical Proficiency

Beginning SATURDAY

The Evening Telegraph will publish each week for 24 weeks a lesson in the famous W. Scott Grove method of learning to play the piano. Famous musicians endorse this course. Those approving the Grove method include Josef Hofman and Ignace Jan Paderewski.

This course is so simple that any child can, by its aid, be started on the way to proficiency on the piano or organ. No previous knowledge of music is necessary. The Music Simplifier Course in Piano Playing teaches the fundamental principles of music.

Learning to play is made fascinating by this method. No finger exercises are required, no running of scales.

After the first few lessons you will be surprised at your progress. The author of this course believes it will enable any person to reach the point where he or she can play simple, popular music.
Those who want to go beyond that—as many probably will—can get the best possible training from music teachers.

Famous Pianists

Dear Sir: I consider your Music Simplifier a very useful improvement in piano teaching.

Dixon High Basketball Teams Meet Rochelle; Second Place at Stake

In a tie for second place honors with Belvidere, Dixon cagers journeyed to Rochelle Friday evening for two North Central Conference games. Dixon took two games from the Hub City quintets at Dixon, early in the conference season. At Rochelle, it will be an entirely different story. The one and only defeat suffered by the pace setting Barbs of DeKalb, has been registered by Rochelle at Rochelle.

Dan Fane, regular heavyweight guard has been out for the last week with a blister on his heel. Dan's absence in the DeKalb was filled by Howard "Spicy" Cunningham. "Spicy" played a good game in this tilt and will offer plenty of competition for the position with Dan's return to the game.

As far as Rochelle is concerned, there is not much news or reports concerning their high school athletics. All that the Dixon teams know, is that one sleepy-eyed six foot forward by name of Neishelm collected most points for the Hubs at Dixon, and that anything they love to do is to play the big bad wolf to wait until some team is leading the conference, and then take great delight in "bumping" off before a home crowd at Rochelle. There is hardly a person in this fair city that does not remember the tragic occurrence that took place during football season.

Regardless of the outcome of this game, the Sharpemen will be in there plugging and praying for some team to take DeKalb so that their conference may end up with a three way tie for first place.

Probable lineups:
Dixon—Underwood, Flanagan, Evans, forwards; Rebeck, center; Fane, Durkes, Cunningham, guards.
Rochelle—Haas, Neishelm, forwards; E. Harris, center; Hannan, Baker, Krahenbuhl, guards.
Dixon Ponies will be in another fighting mood to keep their unbeaten record. The Rochelle minnows put up a good fight at Dixon and will probably show the Junior purple and white quintet some lessons in basket ball on their home court.

Probable lineups:
Dixon—Klein and Boyd, forwards; Tilton, center; Krug and Ankeny, guards.
Rochelle—Maxson and Tilton, forwards; Soar, center; Argall and Whitlock, guards.

High School Aggies Tangle With Amboyites

Coach John N. Weiss' Dixon high school Aggies cagers will tangle with the Amboy high school Ags, at that village tonight at 7:30 o'clock, in a twin bill.

The game for Dixon, will be the third of the season. The local Aggies have dropped two close games to Harmon high by 12 to 11 and 17 to 13 scores respectively. The Dixonites expect to cause plenty of resistance in Amboy. The host team is coached by O. C. Halt.

Probable line-ups for the double contest as far as Dixon is concerned are:

Forwards	Flankers	Center	Guard	Goal
Dumphy, center; Berel, forwards; Gerden guards.
Ripner and Litteral, forwards; Roebrook, center; Ginter and McClary, guards.

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The rapid spread of legalized wagering on horse racing has produced substantial public revenue, based on a compilation of 1934 figures, and it is likely to show a marked increase this year.

Figures for last year show the income for 13 states from license fees or a percentage of the "handle" by the pari-mutuel machines aggregated $5,800,139.22. With New York and Rhode Island added to the list in 1934, this represents roughly a 50 per cent increase in revenue over 1933, although no exact comparison is possible because of the absence of complete official reports.

A total of $171,054,506 was wagered, with figures from New York, the only state in which hand books are used, and Louisiana unavailable.

Illinois Leads Total Wagers
Illinois led in total wagers with $27,353,557 but ranked no better than seventh in amount paid to the state with $545,670.08. The state does not participate in the mutual handle, as do many states, but gets its share from license fees, which ranged from $1,000 to $2,500 daily.

Ranking second to Illinois in total amount wagered with $25,307,790, Maryland topped the list in revenue to the state with a total of $863,269. The old line state had one of its poorest seasons in recent years financially, however, the total wagers comparing with $28,342,784 in 1933 and the state's profit with $899,903 the year previous.

The smallest state in the union, Rhode Island and the largest, Texas, ranked third and fourth, respectively, in total amounts that passed through the mutual machines. Rhode Island fans, with their only back, Narragansett park, exceeding all expectations in attendance, backed the ponies with $23,211,839 of which the state took $812,414.35. With a smaller "take," the state of Texas received only $553,265.33 from an aggregate of $21,067,625 wagered.

New York state, which had received no revenue from horse racing since the sport was black-balled in 1909, profited to the extent of $284,875.84 as its share of the gate receipts. Although no figures are available on the amount wagered, the gate receipts of $2,855,000 more than doubled those of 1933.

Besides Maryland, Kentucky was the only other state that reported a decline in the Associated Press survey. The 1933 figures were not available for Illinois, where a racing commission was not created until last February but it is believed that the state held its own. In Louisiana, where no figures were available for either year as to the amount wagered, the state received more revenue in 1934 due to the fact that there was a longer season. The state derives its income from a daily tax of $250 on Jefferson park and $500 on the Fair grounds.

Michigan Had Increases
Especially notable also were the increases in Michigan, which had only a short season in 1933. New Hampshire with all of its racing concentrated at Rockingham park, and Florida, where the figures were computed by seasons and not years.

IVY LEAGUE IS NEW GRIDIRON LOOP FORMING

Eastern Universities Are Planning Grid Relations

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Staff Editor)
New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The so-called "Ivy League" which is in the process of formation among a group of the older eastern universities now seems to have welcomed Brown into the fold and automatically assumed the proportions of a "Big Eight."

Brown not only is a natural rival of most of the colleges involved. In football as well as other sports, but the Bruins can point with pride to an academic history dating back to 1764. This is short of the standards in longevity and tradition set by Harvard and Yale, founded in 1636 and 1701, respectively, but it comes pretty close to making Brown a charter member of the "Ivy League."

More significant, however, is the fact that the Brown football schedule for 1936 reveals relations with no less than five of the seven universities currently banded together in football basketball and track athletics, while also working out plans for the formation of a football conference.

Will Play Columbia
The Bruins are slated to play Harvard, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Yale and Columbia next year. It should be noted in particular that Brown has substituted Columbia for Colgate, a long-standing rival, on its 1936 slate and will meet the Lions in the season's climactic engagement.

Cornell—the "baby" of the proposed conference, having been founded only 70 years ago—and Princeton have cordial relations with Brown, even though neither is in position to schedule the Bruins regularly. The idea, however, is not to isolate the conference of "Ivy League" from competition with the other colleges. In fact, so far as football is concerned, four games within the group probably will be considered par for any season.

All other indications point to the rapid sealing of agreements calculated to bring about the new league of old eastern universities in football, not only as a natural development of the leagues already in operation in other sports but to standardize methods and practices in the gridiron game.

It is no secret that the colleges involved are definitely committed to a policy of playing within their own football class, while also yielding to the influences of tradition. Friction has been eliminated by the friendly resumption of old rivalries and the creation of some new ones.

Within the "Big Eight," as now proposed, football schedules have now been so arranged that by 1936 there will be a natural climax pairing for all concerned. The lineup brings together Harvard and Yale, Princeton and Dartmouth, Cornell and Pennsylvania, Columbia and Brown, for the season's concluding engagements, all likely to stand the test of long-term relationships.

Success Army & Navy
Suggestions that Army and Navy might be included in a new eastern conference to make it a "big ten" encounter several barriers.

In the first place, both service academies must play a number of inter-sectional games each season, in response to political pressure as well as national interest. They could not be tied to any ironclad agreement with a restricted group, although both academies now enjoy and will continue to have friendly relations with the members of the "Ivy League."

Another obstacle is West Point's refusal to adopt the three-year varsity rule, although this is no longer a point of issue so far as Ann Arbor is concerned.

Demands Same Money He Got from Chicago Cubs Last Year

St. Louis, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Pat Malone, big right-handed pitcher, today in a letter to the Post-Dispatch said he would not sign with the St. Louis Cardinals unless he were paid the same salary he received from the Chicago Cubs last season. While Malone did not disclose the St. Louis terms or his 1934 Chicago salary, the paper said it understood the Cubs paid him about $10,000 and the Cards' offer was about $5,000.

In his letter Malone said, "The reason I want the same money I received last year is that over a period of seven years I have won 115 games, or about 17 games per year. Last year I won 14 and lost seven and didn't start a game for over two months."

Malone, who is at Hot Springs, Ark., told newspapermen there that he had returned his contract with the Cardinals, "haven't you made a mistake and sent me the bat boy's contract?"

"AUTOGRAPH MR. DEAN, PLEASE?" IT'S EARNSHAW

Daffy Made Victim Of Practical Joker

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 7.—(AP)—This one on Paul Dean is going the rounds here:
Daffy and his bride were dining in a restaurant. A tall, husky individual approached shyly.
"I beg your pardon, sir, but aren't you Paul Dean, the baseball pitcher?" he asked.

Paul admitted his identity, and the stranger asked for his autograph. Daffy obliged, commencing: "You look big and husky yourself. Did you ever play ball?"
"Oh, yes, I have played a little; I like the game."
"What position do you play best?"
"Oh, I enjoy pitching very much. I used to be pretty good at it, too."
By this time, Paul, who entered the major leagues only last year, became somewhat suspicious.
"Say," he declared abruptly, "what is your name, anyway?"
"George Earnshaw," the big fellow replied with a grin.

Warburton Will Play With Bears

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Irvine "Cotton" Warburton, whose dazzling runs made him one of the gridiron greats at the University of Southern California, will make his touchdown jaunts for the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football League next fall.
The 147 pound will-o'-wisp came to terms yesterday with Owner George Halas and will report for duty next fall.
Warburton probably will be used at halfback as a running mate to Beattie Phathers, giving the Bears a deceptive combination that should keep them high up in the contending class all season.

Owner Halas today said he had one or two prospects left for consideration for next fall, but refused to divulge their names.
American and foreign engineers have come to the conclusion that, for flying above 30,000 feet, much may be accomplished in the future with use of steam for power plants instead of using internal combustion engines.

TAX EXEMPTION ON SECURITIES MAY BE LIFTED

Roosevelt to Ask Legislation Providing Levies in the Future

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has informed congressional leaders, an authoritative source said today, that when the time is ripe he proposes to ask legislation permitting the United States to tax securities of types now tax-exempt.

The change would not apply to securities now outstanding, it was said, now would it be suggested until the federal government, the 48 states and the thousands of other political subdivisions are out of the depression woods.

The treasury's position, as expressed before house committee last year by Secretary Morgenthau and still apparently unchanged, is that taxation of exempt securities is a good policy—"for the future."

Gov't Must Borrow
One reason for delay, it was reported by a house member who preferred not to be quoted by name, was that the federal government itself must increase its debt by large borrowings in the next fiscal year.

The attitude of the president and his financial advisers, this member said, is that if the securities were taxed they would not sell so freely and at as low interest rates as they now do. In other words, the government might have to increase the interest on its own debt to compensate for the taxes. States, counties and municipalities would have the same problem.

Oppose Publicity
Two important house committees—ways and means and the judiciary—are slated now to have hearings on the problem before the session adjourns. But leaders do not expect their bills to be pressed for passage without administration sanction.

Within the last few days, Morgenthau has opposed the idea of making public a list of those who now hold more than $100,000 in tax-exempt federal securities. His idea, expressed in a letter to the ways and means committee, was this:

"Compilation of the data requested x x x would necessitate a large expansion in the clerical force and would greatly handicap the Bureau of Internal Revenue at the present."

OFFICERS ARE SELECTED BY DAIRY GROUP

Joseph Reaver is New President Of Lee Body

The Lee county, No. 2 Dairy Herd Improvement Association held a very important meeting at the court house in Dixon Tuesday evening at 7:30. County Farm Adviser C. E. Yale of Amboy presided and officers for the year were elected as follows:

President, Joe Reaver.
Vice President, C. C. Buckaloo.
Sec.-Treas., Keith Shank.
Directors, Ward Shank, Harry Fredericks.

Mr. Cash from the University of Illinois dairy extension service gave a short talk on the many advantages of belonging to the Dairy Herd Improvement association, in weeding out the unprofitable cows, thereby putting more clear money in the pockets of the members.

The president then spoke of the importance of each member co-operating with the association in such a way that more members may quickly be added to complete the membership of the organization.

It was unanimously voted that each member pay in advance for the first four months of testing. Joseph Miles, brother of Halsey Miles, one of the outstanding testers of Lee county, was employed by the association to conduct the tests. Any dairymen who are interested in the testing program are requested to secure additional information from any of the following members: C. G. Buckaloo, Aaron Fluke, John

THIRD BIRTHDAY OF IERC TODAY; IS IN TROUBLE

While State Waits for Roosevelt, Congress to Formulate Plan

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—It wasn't a birthday party, but there was a lot of talk at the State House yesterday as the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission started its fourth year as the government's agent in caring for the unemployed.

It was on February 6, 1932, that the relief commission began its job of feeding, clothing and sheltering the urban and rural jobless, on which more than $230,000,000 of Federal and state money has been spent.

Governor Horner and the executive committees of both legislative houses met today to try to decide what, if anything, should be done with the relief commission and, regardless of the answer, to that question, how the state should raise money to carry on its part of the relief activities.

The understanding was that nothing can be done until the Roosevelt administration and Congress formulate a national policy on relief.

Officers and members of the relief commission were, meantime, notified that February 19, two weeks from yesterday, will be the legislature's chance to speak its mind.

The Senate late yesterday concurred in the Adamowski resolution asking the commissioners to appear at a joint session then. Officially, the relief administrators are to take part in a general discussion and contribute suggestions for solving the depression's most perplexing problems. Privately, however, Democratic and Republican legislators are getting ready to repeat their charges that relief has been extravagant and inefficient during the past three years.

Officials to Attend
Chairman Robert J. Dunham, Executive Secretary Wilfred S. Reynolds and other members of the commission have been asked to attend.

John C. Martin of Salem is a member of the commission again. Last month he completed two years' service, ex officio, while state treasurer. Governor Horner reappointed Martin, now Tax Commission chairman, to the relief body to replace Charles Boeschstein of Edwardsville, banker and former Democratic National Committee man, who resigned.

Martin's appointment is expected to go to the Senate for confirmation today.

Hope for definite agreement on a financing plan and for coordination of all relief efforts was held as the executive committees met with the Governor and Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan this morning.

The meeting originally scheduled for yesterday, was arranged by Senator James O. Monroe, Collinsville Democrat.

DATES ARE SET FOR CORN-HOG SIGNATURES

Committee To Help Producers Make Applications

Sign-up dates have been scheduled for all townships in Ogle county for the signing of applications for the 1935 corn-hog control contracts. At each of the places named a committee will be in charge to help corn and hog producers in making their applications.

It is important that each producer apply at the point designated for the township in which his farm lies, because information concerning the corn and hog base for each production in the township, which will be necessary in making the application, will be available only at that meeting place.

The schedule listed below gives the places and dates as decided upon at a meeting of township committee members Monday. A notice of the sign-up meetings will be mailed from the Farm Bureau office to all producers in the county. In case the date or place for any given township should be different in the letter than in this printed list, the letter will be correct as it may be found necessary to make some changes from the list as here given.

"Story of Esther" to be Dramatized Sunday at 2 P. M.

Combining the true elements of the drama—romance, intrigue, heroism, love and selfishness—the story of Esther has been selected as the title of the series of "Immortal Dramas" and will be presented by Montgomery Ward over an NBO-WEAP network on Sunday, February 10 at 2 P. M. E.S.T.

Thus another famous story from the Old Testament will be dramatized to music in this increasingly popular program of the air.

Faithfully following the Old Testament account, the narrative offers more effective plot situations than any of the preceding programs. The incident of King Ahasuerus' choice of Esther as his wife; the discovery by Mordchai, her uncle, of the plot against the king; and the characterization of Haman, who cunningly took credit for saving the life of Ahasuerus, all serve to set the stage for the dramatic ending.

Appropriate selections from the classics played by a symphonic orchestra and an a cappella choir will provide the musical background.

REVENUE FOR ILLINOIS WAS DOUBLED, 1934

Collections Place This State Second Only to New York

Washington, Feb. 7. — (AP) — The bureau of internal revenue has reported that revenue in the two districts of Illinois more than doubled between 1933 and 1934.

The total arose from $136,978,594 to $291,078,143 — a gain of $154,099,551.

Collections in the First District (Northern Illinois) almost doubled, rising from $126,144,445 to $247,143,098.

In the Eighth District (Southern Illinois included) it quadrupled, rising from $10,834,149 to $45,935,053.

The changes within the Illinois revenue boundaries — the Peoria-Pekin distillery region being transferred from the First to the Eighth and the collection of processing taxes in Chicago accounted for much of the gain.

Second to New York Collections placed Illinois second only to New York. Illinois' gains were abnormal, as national collections arose from $2,090,947,279 in 1933 to $2,994,172,571 in 1934.

Breaking down the state totals: Type of Tax 1933 1934

Congressional	$25,512,798	$38,240,835
Individual	26,625,943	34,009,327
Total income tax (for two above)	52,138,742	75,959,715
Miscellaneous	75,959,715	120,849,767
AAA Taxes	8,880,136	97,978,213
Total (all sources)	136,978,594	291,078,143

The bureau warned that the figures were not indicative of the state's federal tax revenue since the taxes may be eventually borne by persons in another state.

$22,812,945 to Farmers Simultaneously with the release of these figures came information from the AAA itself which said that a total of $22,812,945 had been paid farmers of Illinois for wheat, tobacco, and corn-hog reductions to Dec. 31, divided into: wheat, $3,756,181; tobacco, $888; corn-hog, $19,058,765.

Payments for the removal of surplus and drought relief totaled $34,925,493. $24,347,621 went for hogs, $876,031 for butter and cheese and $751,840 for cattle. These payments were made to processors.

McLean county received the largest portion: $633,112. corn-hog; $608,669 and wheat $24,443.

Henry county was second with $556,996, $538,379 going to corn-hog raisers and $18,616 to wheat growers.

Traveling Around America

A SPECTACLED BEAR

This little voyager from Ecuador proved a "natural" for the camera-man for she was as playful and good-natured as a kitten. When she was led to the sun deck of the Santa Maria to pose for ship news photographers she immediately went into action — snatched the reporters' notebooks, rolled their hats around deck, scampered up the rigging and almost succeeded in pulling the ship's whistle cord.

The spectacled little cub and her sister named by their shipmates Fluffy and Tuffy, cruised up from South America on one of the Grace liners to join the bear colony at the Bronx Zoo in New York. They belong to a very rare species, commonly called the spectacled bear.

SILKEN SPINDLES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father.

STEVE MEYERS who also works in the mill asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating. Breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he learns her name.

VICKY THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

LEOTA BOLLER, another employee, tells Gale the mill workers are planning to organize secretly and demand their rights. She asks Gale to come to a meeting and Gale agrees. Later she learns that Leota is a company spy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX

GALE stood still and said, "Why, Josie!"

"It's the truth," the other insisted stoutly. "Wait till we get out of here—I'll tell you more about it."

They followed the hurrying, pushing crowd along the corridor. Gale had heard there were spies in the mill, that the company paid certain men and women for keeping them informed about what was going on among the employees, but these rumors had never seemed quite real. Could Josie be right about it? Was Leota Boller really a spy?

As they turned into the wash room Josie looked back and said in a low voice, "Wait for me outside."

Gale put on her coat and hat and hurried out of the building. It was only a few moments before Josie reappeared. Another girl was with her and the three of them went down the walk and through the big gate together. There the third girl set off in one direction and Josie and Gale took another.

Gale glanced over her shoulder, and saw that no one was near enough to overhear. She said: "What makes you think what you said?"

"About Leota? Because I know it's true. I got a friend who works in the business office and he's seen her in there reportin' what she's picked up snoopin' around. She gets paid for it. Can you imagine that? Gettin' paid for bein' a tattletale. She's not the only one, either. There's lots more. Ed Vogel, the gate-keeper, is the worst of the lot. The low-down, snoopin' tattletale. Believe me, when I see him or that Leota I keep my distance. A person's got to be careful, I tell you. Say—I hope you didn't tell her anything!"

"Why, no," Gale said doubtfully. "I don't believe I did."

Had she? Had she told Leota Boller anything which, repeated, could make trouble for Gale? She tried to remember what each of them had said. It was Leota who had been so outspoken against the company, against the way employees were treated. If Leota was a spy—yes, she might have said those very things, hoping to get Gale to commit herself. All at once Gale remembered about the meeting she had promised to go to. "I'll tell Leota I can't go," she decided.

JOSIE went on speaking. "Gee, if you let anything slip you'll be sorry for it!" she prophesied.

"I'm sure I didn't," Gale told her. She thought it was better not to tell Josie any more about the conversation with Leota. There was still a possibility that Josie might be wrong about the other girl. "Whether she is or not," Gale assured herself, "I won't take chances. I won't go to the meeting with her."

Thus she dismissed the whole affair. It never occurred to Gale that the incident might have more serious consequences.

She had no time to think about Leota Boller when she reached home. Her father lay back against the pillows and Gale noticed with a stab how old he looked.

He greeted her cheerfully. Yes, Mrs. O'Connor had come in and brought him some food at noon and she'd been in twice since.

"Here's your medicine," Gale told him. "You're to take it three times a day after meals. And here's the evening paper. I'll turn the light on and you can read it while I'm in the kitchen."

But Tom Henderson said he'd rather not have the light on. And anyhow he didn't feel like reading.

Gale glanced at him anxiously but the glance told her nothing. She went to her own room and changed the mill uniform for a house dress. In the kitchen, in place of the soiled breakfast dishes she expected to find, there was a pile of clean cups and saucers, plates and knives and forks.

"Mrs. O'Connor!" Gale thought. "Gee! I'll have to find some way to make up for all this—"

She busied herself scraping carrots and chopping cabbage and cutting slices of mush to fry. Phil liked fried mush and it didn't cost much. She set the table as soon as the vegetables were on the stove. Then she made toast and poured steaming hot milk over it. She set a bowl of the milk toast on a tray with a cup of tea and was just ready to take it to her father when Phil came in.

"I'll take it," he offered.

"Oh, thanks, Phil!"

Gale went about getting the meal on the table and when Phil returned it was ready. They sat down, facing each other, each aware of the vacant place at the foot of the table.

Phil said, "He seems better to-night. Don't you think so?"

"Yes. Only he looks so tired."

"I noticed that," Phil agreed. "but he told me he didn't feel tired."

"You know he never admits anything is wrong."

"Yes, that's true," Phil talked of other things then.

A little later he arose and went into the front of the house. Gale gathered up the dishes and put on water in the kettle to heat. She was on her way to her father's room when there was a knock at the door.

Gale hurried forward and opened the door. She said, "Good evening—" and then stopped.

Steve Meyers stood on the threshold. He said, "I heard your father was sick. How is he tonight?"

"Better," Gale told him, "but the doctor said he should stay in bed for a few days."

"Could I see him?" Steve asked. "Why, yes, of course."

He came into the house then. Gale turned and Steve put out a hand, as though to stop her. He said, "Wait a minute, Gale. There's something I want to talk to you about."

She hesitated, waiting for him to go on.

"It didn't mean what I said the other night," Steve's voice was self-conscious.

GALE's eyes were lowered. "I said things I shouldn't have, too," she told him. "Steve—I wish we could go on being friends again."
